HILLIFE

Chapel Hill High School

Chapel Hill, North Carolina

Sarah Umstead

Sarah Umstead—a most sincere, understanding, unselfish, helpful person—has been an inspiration, guide, and example for all of the Class of 1959 even before our high school days.

No one has proved herself more sincerely and completely interested in young people than Sarah. A close friend of us all, we have intrusted Sarah with many personal problems, called on her when help was needed, joined her in the fun she always has, and marveled at her ability to do so much for others.

Out of grateful appreciation for her wonderful service, the Class of 1959 co-dedicates the 1959 HILLIFE to Sarah Umstead.

Robert C. Culton

You came, you saw, you conquered—and we are grateful. Your physical education program, your gym, and your athletic teams have been a source of pride and joy for not only our class, but also the entire school. We are thankful for your example of clean living and sportsmanship, for it has influenced both your athletes and the school.

The Class of 1959, your first four-year class, wishes to express its gratitude to you, Coach Robert C. Culton, for your guidance, inspiration, and unswerving hard work for all of us.

true friendship . . . instruction

Through Sarah's hard work and constant effort we spent many unforgettable hours in the old "Rec," playing, talking, and dancing. With the demolition of the "Rec," Sarah quickly switched operations to our new gym where she provided recreation during summer and winter.

By his example, Coach Culton has implanted in the minds of his students the high ideals of honesty, fair play, and good sportsmanship. His wisdom, understanding, and poise have been a constant inspiration to all who know him. To him belongs a great deal of the credit for the new gym and facilities which we enjoy.

This IS CHAPEL HILL

This is the log of traditions. In it is a pictorial review of your life at Chapel Hill High. Here you carry on customs and by doing so you cut a pattern. Through the years many things have been altered, depending upon many different factors. The future alterations are left to the underclassmen. You made the imprints of tradition even deeper as you walked up the brick walk to school.

You see the challenge academically, socially, and physically, and attempt to meet it. In doing so you unconsciously mold tradition, impart knowledge, and determine objectives. Tradition is an ever-developing process.

OUR YEAR UNFOLDS . . .

The beautiful, golden autumn days of September and October bring the warmth of renewed friendships and the thrill of new acquaintances. Summer leisure is lost and you return to autumn routine.

Scared freshmen and proud seniors arrive at school with anxious hopes and forward looks. Out of momentary confusion grows organization. Study takes the place of summer freedom and another year unfolds. Now you begin to develop your distinct personality.

The promise of victory, the dances, the football games—gala festivities—add decorative touches to your pattern. The cheerleaders yell as the team comes into sight. One wild surge of enthusiasm occurs as School Spirit raises her lovely head!

Rat-a-tat-tat! Rat-a-tat-tat! Making their entrance onto the football field, the band lets music sound. The majorettes work hard and give spectacular shows. You find companionship with others who show the same emotions. Here you show your expression of pride and confidence.

The approach of Thanksgiving brings a special brand of magic—the traditional Thanksgiving Dance, which is given by a group of C H H S'ers. Christmas weaves its magic also—the shopping sprees, the New Year's Eve Dance, and two weeks of fun! Here you betray your dedication to past customs.

Junior-Senior

Hearts were full of dreams last May when the proud, hardworking Juniors made the gym into a wonderful Japanese fairyland. The strains of Sayonara will always be cherished and remembered.

Students, teachers, and parents work together to improve the school at the P. T. S. A. meetings.

Y-Teens give service to the community by collecting money for the March of Dimes.

Selling the "World's Finest Chocolate" made the S. C. A. richer. The money that was made was used to finance different projects.

On Halloween night over 150 students collected $900 by "trick-or-treating" for UNICEF.

On Saturdays the Junior Y-Teens work in the P. T. S. A.'s Thrift Shop.

ACTIVE PARTICIPATION IN ORGANIZATIONS. . .

Many are amazed at algebraic methods.

These D. E. students gain business experience and learn a trade while they are in high school.

Classroom Highlights

Life in the classroom proves to be a worthwhile part of the high school curriculum. The wide range of subjects taught at Chapel Hill High includes trades, academics, arts, and home economics. Everyone works diligently, keeping up the tradition of high scholastic standing of CHHS students. While living and learning this year, the Seniors could hardly forget Miss Lewis's tales of England and her love for King Alfred. Through courtesy of Charles Dickens, the Freshmen became well acquainted with David Copperfield. The chemistry classes will never forget the balancing of molecules in equations.

All in all, the knowledge developed in the classrooms on the long road to graduation is enriched both in profundity and humor.

Seniors find Miss Lewis a fascinating English teacher.

"Eyes on the copy . . . begin."

WARM JUNE SUNLIGHT . . . AND AN ACHE IN OUR HEARTS TO SAY GOODBYE TO CHAPEL HILL HIGH . . .

A young freshman, anxiously anticipating the privileges granted to upperclassmen, embarks on the long road to graduation. These traditional rights—buying class rings, selling magazine subscriptions, and all the others—must be gained a year at a time through graduation and gradual maturity. No matter how the freedom of senior year is achieved, it always seems to begin with that old adage—an apple for the teacher.

Adminis

A new principal, new teachers, and many new ideas reinforced the faculty during your Senior year. The faculty has guided you through many disappointments in your four years at CHHS as well as sharing in your many joys of school experiences. Your mistakes have been overlooked, and your faculty has shown you understanding and kindness in times of need.

Your faculty has done outstanding work in helping the students of CHHS to understand and appreciate the value of an education. They find joy in seeing their pupils succeed. Seniors, as well as the underclassmen, are grateful. Thank you for your patience and help.

Dr. Joseph M. Johnston, superintendent of schools, arrives early to go to his office in the Cone House.

Mr. Edward Y. Jaynes, assistant principal, is giving advice to students.

"May I have your attention please?" is the familiar greeting of Miss May Marshbanks, principal of CHHS.

Lunchroom Staff

The lunchroom staff and custodians are of invaluable service to the school. The custodians keep CHHS in shipshape while everyone studies on.

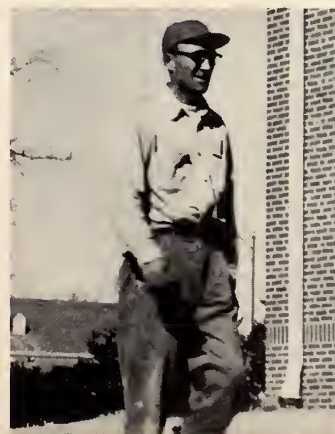

These are the wonderful women who prepare the food at CHHS. Day in and day out, they serve good, hot lunches to the hungry students.

MONITOR

During snack shack and lunch time, the monitors were stationed at various posts in order to see that rules were kept. Many students aided in the office during their study halls. They answered the phone, filed, and picked up the mail. The store workers kept the Student Council Store during all periods of the day. The library assistants shelved books, filed cards, and saw to it that all fines were paid. Every period a person was in charge of the Red Cross room. These students looked after anyone who was sick or hurt.

LIBRARY ASSISTANTS

During your four years at Chapel Hill High, your attention was focused on the classroom and the library. Those who were willing to follow traditions of Chapel Hill High and work toward their goal—whether it was vocational, commercial, or academic—had only to open the door to success.

Our Class History

We were a class of many moods—heads bent intently as we strived to achieve high academic goals, or as we laboriously made plans for the Junior-Senior.

Shrieks of laughter and shouts of joy as we partied or just enjoyed one another's company.

In all spheres—academic, social and athletic—we have made our mark on Chapel Hill High School. Now, the members of our class will step forward to make their mark on the world.

Junior Marshals

It is the custom of the Senior Class each spring to select seven members of the Junior Class to act as marshals at graduation exercises. The marshals are elected by a vote of the Seniors on the basis of their dignity and personality.

"Old Doc"

Despite bomb threats and snow storms, the Senior Class production, "Old Doc," was given in the true Senior tradition. Under the competent direction of Miss Lewis the play was a great success, even after having been postponed several times.

Our Class History

September ushered us back to school, a proud and happy Junior Class. The year started at a fast pace with the election of class officers, when we re-elected David Henry, whose glasses are always cocked up at an odd angle.

Sell! Sell! Sell! were the words that Juniors were shouting for the next few weeks during their magazine campaign. But the hard work paid off, for we went way over our goal and sold more than any other class before us.

Our Junior Class play was "the best one ever" and provided us with more money towards our going-away present to the Seniors—the Junior-Senior. Everyone will remember the hard work and labor which produced one of the most beautiful Junior-Senior Proms ever.

Next year we go to the top position of the totem pole, but before we bid a fond farewell to this our Junior year, we don't want to forget the hard work (especially in Mrs. Howard's English classes) . . . the gripes, when we were (laboriously) working on short stories . . . the junior athletes that constituted our basketball teams . . . but there are some events, like the night Montie saved the Graham game for us . . . our Junior Class marshals ushering at graduation . . . eating lunch on the auditorium steps during the fall . . . cutting up in Mr. Ellington's history class . . . ordering our class rings . . . then there came meetings . . . meetings . . . meetings . . . more meetings.

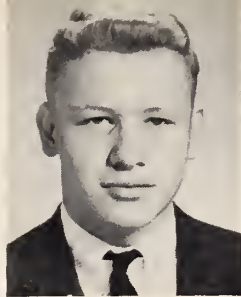

All of this made up a fabulous year which we all enjoyed. And now just think: one more year!

Our Class History

Our second year—now no longer freshmen—the class of '61 has moved up to a higher rung on the ladder and with this step has come knowledge and experience.

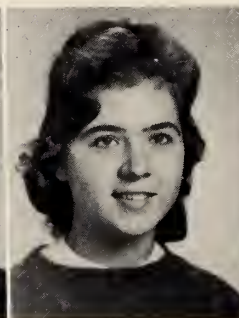

This was the year that saw the "wise fools" branch out into the different activities of the school and become an important group in the life of CHHS. Active now in sports, in the band, the Student Council, the Proconian and HILLIFE, in clubs, and in Y-Teens.

We sold the most in the SCA chocolate sale... struggled through Biology and Julius Caesar... our last year of Phys. Ed... had our own dance... provided much of the talent found this year in sports... sat and watched while Sputniks and Explorers were thrown into space... took part in UNICEF trick or treat on Halloween Eve... lorded it over the lowly "frosh"... sweated exams... made new resolutions to do better in the days yet to come... and dissected frogs and bisected angles.

Now we're leaving the tenth rung on our grade school ladder—two more and we'll be on the first plateau—1961—graduation—it seems so far and yet so near.

Ever exploring Freshmen

Freshmen Officers

FRANK MARTIN	President
MERLE SMITH	Secretary
KENNY OETTINGER	Vice-President
RUSTY EDMISTER	Treasurer
GEORGE COSTELLO	Associate Justice

Our Class History

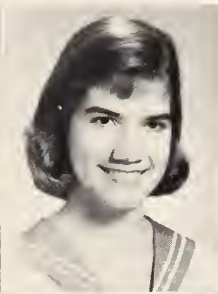

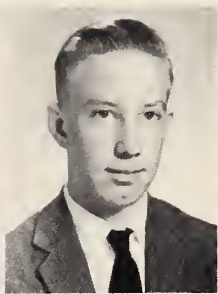

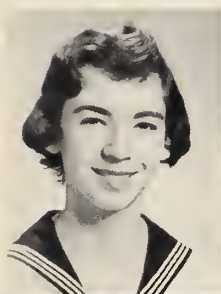

We were actually in high school, and it was the time that all of the Freshmen had looked forward to! The post card inviting us to Orientation Day came about a week before Chapel Hill High School opened in September. We could hardly wait for the opening day! The thrill and prospect of being a CHHS'er was worth all of the kidding the Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors gave to us. We would even go through it again to be part of the great CHHS family.

That hectic first week was really a mess! But what seemed to us at first a scatterbrained confusion is now our accepted routine. The bells ringing, the sudden thought of "where is my next class," the mobs in the halls, snack-shack, gabbing, lunch uptown, pep rallies, and yelling with all our hearts at the first football game—all combined to give us that wonderful feeling of really belonging in high school.

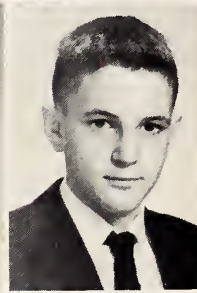

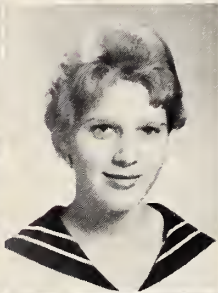

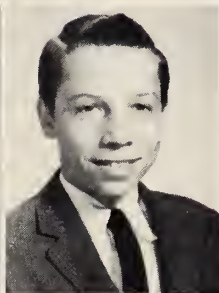

Time passed quickly at first, and by the end of the first six weeks we had all joined clubs and organizations and had our first class meeting. During the fall semester the Freshmen went to sock hops and other school functions. There were also Y-Teen affairs which saw many freshmen girls mustering up their courage to ask upperclassmen to be their dates.

After the holidays full of fun, fellowship, and parties, winter flu bugs added miseries to many a Freshman's mid-term exams. But aspirin tablets and thoughts of the Sweetheart Ball gave us something bright to look forward to—the beginning of a work and fun packed second semester.

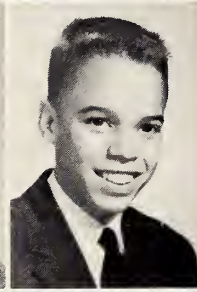

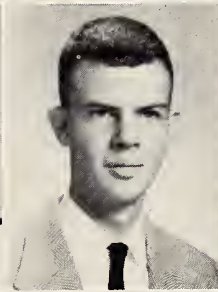

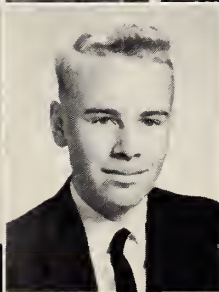

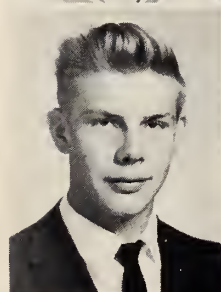

At the end of the year, with Spring melting into Summer and vacation just ahead, we realized what a wonderful experience it has been to be a freshman. We have absorbed our fair share of the "Three R's" and have sprinkled them with lots of fun along the way. With one year down and three to go, just think, next year we will be the ones on hand to welcome a new crop of "lowly green frosh" in the same old CHHS tradition.

Mid thy halls of pleasant learning . . .

Dwell fond memories ere returning . . .

The key to our school and to our personalities may be found in the caliber of our organizations. The traditional club meetings are held once a month. Here youth directs its own destinies under adult supervision. This is the balancing force that produces the well-rounded student, the person socially adjusted as well as academically prepared. The Future Farmers of America leans strongly toward developing the individual himself. Making decisions and carrying them to completion is the principle of our democratic way of life.

Mrs. Sullivan, Advisor; Subir Roy, President; Pete Range, Vice-President; Iris Wootton, Secretary; Sue Ham, Treasurer.

Government . . . of the Students,

This year CHHS was very fortunate in being host to the North Carolina Student Council Congress. Almost all the students took part by keeping delegates in their homes or guiding the delegates around the school.

You have been fortunate in having student government in CHHS. You have been able to make your own decisions on matters that were within your realm of judgment. You have had a voice in the following activities and problems: extra-curricular set-up, club organizations, care for the school itself, providing and operating a student supply store, and judging your misbehavior through an honor system. This provides excellent training for citizenship and self-government in the future.

Many projects such as the Get-Acquainted Dance; the student handbook, The Key; the student directory, The Dial; and the chocolate sale were very successful and founded some new traditions.

President Subir Roy conducting a meeting.

by the Students, for the Students . . .

The House and Grounds Committee strives to make the school attractive.

The Assembly Committee is in charge of our rare assemblies.

Honor Council

The Honor Council is the judicial branch of your student government. Its purpose is to enforce the school rules and to counsel, thus increasing the maturity and strengthening the character of each student.

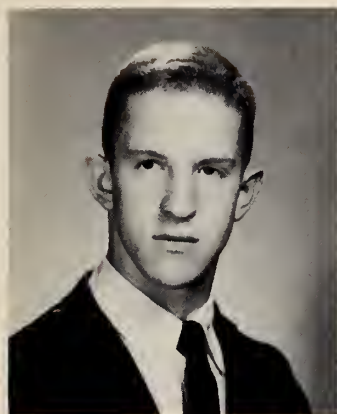

You are given the privilege of self-discipline because of the honor system.

Proconian Records Life of

The whole business of publishing the Proconian is one continuous cycle renewed every two weeks. We'll start with the first week's activities.

Monday

Articles are assigned, one to every person if possible. Also, a session on criticizing the previous issue of the paper is held.

Tuesday

Articles are worked on in class. Much of the reporting must be done outside journalism class.

Wednesday

This is deadline day for all copy. Page editors must have sketched diagrams of their respective pages ready.

Thursday

Articles are checked by Miss Lewis, then revised if necessary. Typists begin working, and headlines are assigned.

Friday

This is deadline day for typists and headline writers.

SECOND WEEK

Monday

All copy goes to the Orange Printshop to be set in type. Deadline is 5 P.M.

Tuesday

The period is devoted to learning more about journalism through classroom study.

Wednesday

Long printed sheets—called “galleys”—of Proconian copy set into type come from the printer. Two sets of galleys are sent. One is proofread for errors, and the other is cut out to be pasted onto “dummy” pages by the page editors. This shows the printer how to “make-up” the page. The pasted up pages go back to the printer.

Thursday

Friday

The big day! The Proconian comes off the press; but the work of the staff continues. The Circulation Manager counts out the correct number of papers for each sixth period class, for all the advertisers, and for all the exchange papers. Then they are distributed. Also, the Board of Editors meets during the period to draw up a new list of articles to appear in the next issue of the paper.

Work, work, work—that is what you found around the HILLIFE staff room, especially around “deadline” season. Members of the staff attended the North Carolina Press Institute in October and in April went to the Southern Inter-Scholastic Press Association which is held in Lexington, Virginia.

The staff's greatest joy, however, was completing the book and sending it to Winston-Salem. Then came the desired reward—the smiles and praise of fellow students as they looked for the first time at our creation—the 1959 HILLIFE.

Library Club

The members of the Library Club are of invaluable service to the school. They volunteer their time to perform the many duties necessary to the successful operation of the library. Book circulation, reshelving books, and processing new and rebound volumes are only a few of the time consuming tasks in which the hard working members engage in a day's work.

The club keeps a permanent record of its activities in the form of a scrapbook and attends state and district conventions. Without the help of these students, your high school library would be an impossibility.

The Glee Club is an organization made up of students in your school who like to sing.

Music classes meet every day and the whole chorus meets together during club periods and once a week on Fridays.

The Glee Club usually gives a program near Christmas, but was unable to do so this year because of the snow which occurred before the holidays.

Another function of the Club is to sing at the Baccalaureate service and at the graduation exercises.

MONOGRAM CLUB

Bringing athletic honors to Chapel Hill High for the past few years have been the members of the Monogram Club. Those who have lettered practiced hard, cheered and played well, in order to gain, along with the victory laurels, the quality known as sportsmanship.

Members of the club spend the year raising money to buy jackets, sweaters, and blazers for the senior lettermen. This money is raised by the operation of a concession stand at all home basketball games.

Distributive Education

The D. E. Club is an outgrowth of the Distributive Education class. This being the first year, the Distributive Education trainers made a special effort to make the schoolwork relate with problems on the job. The class takes up all phases of technical and professional development. Buyers, store managers, service managers, advertising executive, and other management positions—these are the types of jobs for which D. E. trains students.

The Homemaking way . . . The F. H. A.

Members of the Future Homemakers of America have a vital interest in homemaking, and in leadership and well-rounded personalities. Homes are the foundation of American Democracy.

Members work towards making happier homes—the influence of the home means a better North Carolina and America.

The traditional Mother-Daughter banquet is one of the club's projects.

The F. H. A.'s motto is "Toward New Horizons." The emblem, a house supported by two hands inclosed in an octagon, symbolizes the future homes of America, all in the hands of its youth.

A traditional scene—the bonfire and the cheerleader. On the gridiron, track, court, field, or pool, you develop skill, co-ordination, and most of all, sportsmanship—these three are the necessary qualifications for the game of life. The spectator is as important as the athlete because he spurs him to success and encourages him in his hour of defeat.

Hey, all you Wildcats! Let's have a victory tonight!

In mid-August every year begins thirteen weeks of work, fun, physical contact, and spirit called football. For the boys who play, the coaches who teach, and those who watch the games, football season is one of the happiest, most joyful, and, colorful parts of your school year. You'll never forget the seven wonderful wins this year, nor will you forget those three defeats. It was a wonderful year, and, in the pages to follow, you will recall many of the reasons why.

The coaches . . .

Coaches Joe Augustine and Dick Jamerson, without whose fine work and help the teams could never have been so successful.

The Class of '59 was in its freshman year when Coach Robert Culton arrived on the scene. Called "Boss Bob" by his many players, he has guided his teams to increasing success each year.

CHAPEL HILL-6

SOUTHERN-0

CHHS's football elite inaugurated the '58 campaign with a shaky victory, 6-0, over Southern High. Halfback Charlie Hubbard knifed over the goal from two yards out for the TD to culminate a 35-yard drive set up by John McNeill's recovery of a Southern bobble.

CHAPEL HILL-19

OXFORD-7

Passing magician Subir Roy mesmerized Oxford defenses with three TD aerials, two hauled in by Hubbard and one by Dave Henry. Oxford tallied first, but CHHS roared back for two TD's in the same quarter to gain the 19-7 win, in a game played away from home.

Again quarterback Roy dazzled defenses with his passing, Page High of Greensboro the victim this time. End Bob Larsh and halfback Henry accounted for the TD's via passing, while Henry tallied two others with some blazing broken field running.

CHAPEL HILL-19

GRAHAM-14

In a heart-stopper, CHHS slipped by Graham in the home opener by 19-14. A tired but valiant CHHS forward wall halted Graham on the Wildcat two yard line in the game's last play to preserve the win. Earlier, Hubbard and Henry scooted for CHHS scores.

CHAPEL HILL-13

HILLSBORO-0

Wildcat fans went into a frantic frenzy after CHHS erupted for two second half touchdowns to plow Hillsboro right into their own "mud-bowl" by 13-0, thus halting a winless nine-year famine for the Wildcats in play against their cross-county arch-rivals.

CHAPEL HILL-6

ROXBORO-13

A rugged Roxboro team tumbled CHHS from the undefeated circle, 13-6, before an overflow crowd at Lions Park. CHHS's lone score came in the second quarter when Dave Henry intercepted a Roxboro pass and ran it for a TD. Other opportunities were muffed.

CHAPEL HILL-13

NORTHERN-7

The footballers pulled out shirt tails and battled back into the winning groove with a 13-7 Homecoming triumph over obstinate Northern. The clash was not settled till the waning moments when CHHS's Henry whammed over the goal from two yards out.

CHAPEL HILL-0

OXFORD ORPHANAGE-12

A bunch of listless Wildcats couldn't cope with a band of ruff 'n' ready Oxford Orphanage Red Devils, the result being a dismal 12-0 defeat. The victors pushed across all of their 12 markers in the second quarter. CHHS threatened only one time.

CHAPEL HILL-0

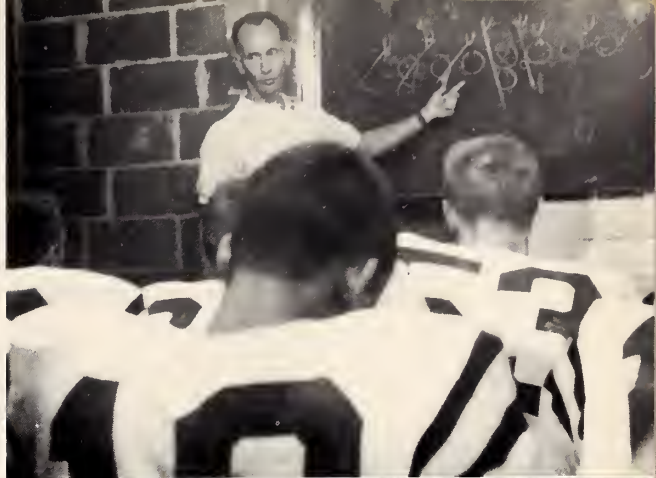

HENDERSON-24

Henderson, backed up within their 30-yard line four times in first half action by surging CHHS penetrations, balked those threats and made advances of their own pay off in points after intermission to whip the Wildcats at Henderson, 24-0.

CHAPEL HILL-14

CARY-7

Coach Bob Culton's gridiron crew banged out a 14-7 "senior game" win over Cary to earn third place in the District III conference and thus put the season record at a fine 7-3, the best in 10 years. Henry and fullback Bob Madry accounted for CHHS scoring.

Duh . . . What's all that jazz on the blackboard, Coach?

Coach Bob Culton had his work cut out for him this year with a host of tall, experienced lettermen returning for another season of hardwood action.

drives us indoors, and . . .

Basketball is a great indoor sport. Supposedly a "non-contact" game, it is as popular with CHHS'ers as with the rest of the nation. Having excellent material, a fine new gym, and good coaches made this year's squad a winner. Who can forget those Tuesday and Friday nights spent yelling the boys' and girls' teams to victory?

Brenda Harward and Paul Houston, faithful scorekeepers.

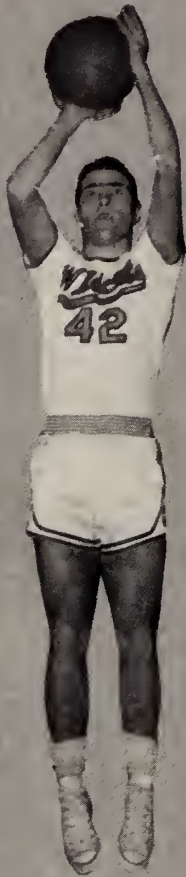

George Canada, faithful follower of all CHHS athletics and friend of all CHHSers, takes in an exciting game in the gym.

Some of the most outstanding players on the team are sophomores; this makes the outlook for coming seasons a bright one.

outside again!

Someone once said: "In spring, a young man's fancy turns to Love." This may be true, but to many of CHHS's young men spring means a chance to get outdoors under a hot sun, to run 'till he can't run anymore, to throw a ball, to swing a bat, eat some dust, and to enjoy competition and team spirit offered by the great game of baseball.

Chapel Hill High habitually fields good baseball teams, and this year was no exception. Eight lettermen returned to comprise the nucleus of a strong team.

Swimming has been a fast-growing sport at CHHS for many years. This year, with several outstanding swimmers returning, the team provided healthy competition for even the best teams in the South.

Track was started at Chapel Hill several years ago by a few boys who were interested enough to work out every day without a coach and no definite schedule. Each year some progress is made towards more organization and better participation. This year was no exception as the nucleus of a fine 1958 team returned plus fresh blood from the underclassmen.

The "fresh blood" — Johnston, Smith, T. Hubbard, Lefler.

1958 Champs!

On a May, 1958, afternoon, about ten boys from Chapel Hill High School met at Fetzer Field on the UNC campus to enter the District III Championship Track Meet being held there. They had no coach and had not previously worked out together as a team; yet they won more events than any other team there and walked off with the championship trophy in their hands!

Three radiant queens with sparkling eyes trying to contain their excitement reigned over the Homecoming festivities this year. The queens began their reign at the football game with Northern, when they were escorted by co-captains Ronald Wright and Subir Roy at the half-time show.

Memories of the bouquets of red roses, a huge golden crown casting shadows over the gym at the dance after the game, and the long walk up the aisle to the thrones will linger in the minds of the queens, football players, and CHHS'ers alike.

As the 1959 HILLIFE goes to press, the staff hopes that it meets the standards of past yearbooks.

To the following, we wish to express our gratitude:

Mr. Jerry Lewis for selecting the beauty court.

Our advertisers who showed us in a substantial way their confidence in our undertaking.

Pam Williams, Tina Demeritt, and Sally Lee for helping with the typing.

Mrs. Britt and Mrs. Huquelet for advising us.

Mrs. Sullivan for looking after us in times of need.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Lavergne Johnson who took the Senior pictures and the beauty court.

Chips Weaver for taking the Sweethearts pictures.

Richard Shambly and Yates Tilson for art work.

William Brinkhous and Rupert Bynum for helping with pictures.

Senior Class for selling advertisements.

WE WORKED, WE SLAVED, WE FINALLY DID IT!

Headlines, deadlines, rubber cement

Thousands of hours of time well spent

We're working late with our little heads bent

Till the book has gone in, we won't be content.

But if you ask us about it

We'll say its been fine

To have worked together on the HILLIFE of 1959.

THE STAFF

The yearbook would not go to press if it were not for the financial backing of the Chapel Hill, Carrboro, and Durham merchants. Because of their support, the tradition of the HILLIFE is kept alive. All Chapel Hill High School students should patronize the many businesses found herein to show their appreciation of the support given us by these people.
